16th July 1938.

Your Highness,

I have to solecit kind attention to the fact that since long there has been no nes of Your Highness's welfare. I am very anxious xxxxx about it.

On 10th July 1938 I got a telegram from my daughter (Princess), regarding her staff, about which I had already talked with Your Highness.

I am extremely sorry grieved at it. I had a happy marriage and in the happy hope of living to my daughter. But Your Highness has pleased to depart from the customs of your state and settled this matter. Your Highness's nephew in Baroda, I hope, it is true and only hoped that Your Highness, in the position of our relations, near and dear, should have a consideration for the customs prevalent here. It conductive to the happiness of my daughter that she should have a staff of my choice. That is quite a new place for her and naturally she feels dull there.

I find difficult to get a right place or post or learning, how lonely she feels. I am ill quiety on thinking on her state of perplexity.

I think in every state, this custom prevails, I mean Princesses keeping their own staff of their own choice, often their near-ones. I do not think, this kindness of allowing me to send a Sardar of my family or my choice to ~~xxxxxxx~~ supplement the staff there to look after the comforts of the Princess. This will not be a source of trouble or burden to your Highness, but bring the happiness of my daughter. That will rather add to the glory of yours, to both the places.

I am sure, your Highness will award such treatment to the staff from me, after pains and difficulties I faced in managing this Marriage, which I think to be to the happiness of my daughter.

I hope Your Highness will extend your kindness to considering favourably my humble request and ~~xxxxxxx~~ allowing a Sardar and staff to remain there permanently, for the happiness of my daughter, as Your Highness is as good as a father to her.

It is my greatest happiness and prayer that the couple may be ever happy and joyful. That is the only thing of which I want to be sure, in the last remaining days of my life.

Yours faithfully,

C.I. O.

Charkhari (C.I.)

This may leaves me well and I humbly wish, may find Your Highness in the enjoyment of sound health and happiness.

Eagerly waiting for a reply.

With Best Wishes.

Your's Sincerely.
